We bring in several stars from the NMPHil's string, woodwind, and brass families to act as soloists in this one-of-a-kind concert featuring some of Mozart's most beautiful concerto moments. Mozart effortlessly wrote these works with equal parts virtuosity and equal parts melody, ensuring the audience is constantly mesmerized by both. The concerti performances serve as the appetizer before the main course of Symphony No. 40, aka the "Great g minor Symphony," in its entirety. We dare you to leave this concert without a smile on your face and a song in your heart!

Mozart Symphony No. 41, "Jupiter"

While Mozart could not have known the "Jupiter" Symphony would be his final statement in the symphonic form, audiences have marveled at its quirks and complexities for more than two centuries. He composed his 39th, 40th, and 41st symphonies in a frenetic nine-week period in 1788. Also on this program, go back to the beginning with Mozart's First Symphony, composed at the age of 8, as well as two beloved piano concerti.
