

On Thursday, November 18th, eight FOSM volunteers continued building northward on the new Wagon Trail extension towards the Sulphur Canyon Picnic Area. Temps started out in the low 20's, but exertion in the sun kept the workers warm. In the morning Bruce worked on one tricky spot left from the previous week, and Jim worked on another, while the rest of the crew forged ahead cutting new tread. The terrain was both less steep and less rocky than anticipated, and trail-building conditions were pleasant.

The volunteers were Jenny Blackmore, Bruce Hansche, Jim Houle, Pat & Mike Madden, Rav Nicholson, Steve Roholt and Cleve Sharp.

Photos by Jenny Blackmore.

---

The Maddens with their picks

Steve and Rav with theirs

Cleve, a man of many talents

No "before," but here's Bruce during. After, from the other direction

Jim before(ish) with sledge. During (shell jacket shed!)

After